2. How super works

Superannuation is a long-term investment designed to help you save for your retirement which is, in part, compulsory.

Most Australian employers are required by Government legislation to contribute 9.5% of an employee’s ordinary time earnings to a superannuation fund nominated by the employee or, if an employee does not nominate a fund, to the employer’s default fund. This compulsory employer contribution is called the Superannuation Guarantee (“SG”).

In most cases you can choose the super fund, into which your employer pays your contributions. In some cases, your super fund may be selected according to the terms of your employment.

Super is a tax effective way to save for your future because of the tax concessions provided by the Government. There are other contributions that can be made to Emplus Employer Super in addition to your SG contributions, such as voluntary contributions and Government co-contributions.

There are limitations on contributions to, and withdrawals from, superannuation. You can access your superannuation savings once you retire on or after reaching your preservation age or in other circumstances permitted by law (for example, death, permanent incapacity and financial hardship), called “conditions of release”. The conditions of release for temporary residents vary from those applicable to Australian citizens, New Zealand citizens or permanent residents of Australia.

General information about super is available from www.moneysmart.gov.au

You should read the important information about how super works before making a decision. For more information about how super works, go to the ‘How Super Works’ section of the Member Guide which is available by going to the Forms page at www.emplus.com.au/forms or on request by phoning 1800 336 911. Emplus Employer Super is available to employees enrolled into Emplus by their employer. This product is also available to members transferred the Emplus Superannuation Fund under a successor fund transfer arrangement effective 1 June 2018.

Members of Emplus Employer Super have an accumulation style account. This means any contributions made to their superannuation account accumulate over time, together with any investment earnings (which may be positive or negative) after taking into account any fees, costs or other charges (e.g. insurance premiums or taxes).

Members can choose how their contributions and/or account balance are invested by selecting from over 20 investment options referred to in Section 5.

The investment strategy for each investment option is determined by the Trustee.

Members joining Emplus Employer Super can apply for insurance cover for death, total and permanent disablement (TPD) and income protection at group rates. Insurance cover is provided to insured members by OnePath Life Limited (“the Insurer”).

Eligible members enrolled into Emplus Employer Super by their employer will be provided with automatic (default) insurance cover. Members transferred to this product under a successor fund transfer arrangement effective 1 June 2018 will retain insurance cover they had immediately before the transfer. Further information about insurance is set out in Section 8 and in the Emplus Employer Super Insurance Guide and, if applicable to you, an Employer Plan Schedule.

When a member retires, or meets another condition of release such as permanent incapacity or death, their account is payable as one or more lump sums.

You can transfer superannuation in or out of Emplus Employer Super. No minimum withdrawal is required.

4. Risks of super

All investments involve risks. Super funds may invest in a range of asset classes – for example cash, fixed interest, listed property and shares – that have different levels of risk.

Generally, the higher the potential return of an investment over the longer term, the greater the risk of loss in the shorter term.

Emplus Employer Super offers a variety of investment options, containing a different mix of these asset classes. The likely investment return, and the risk of losing money, is different for each investment option depending on the underlying mix of assets.

What are the risks involved?

When considering your investment in super, it is important to understand the following;

- Investments will fluctuate in value and returns can be volatile and may vary.
- Returns are not guaranteed and you may lose some of your money.
- Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.
- Laws affecting your super may change in the future.
- The amount of your super savings (including contributions and returns) may not be enough to provide adequately for your retirement.
- Levels of risk will vary depending on a range of factors including your age, investment timeframe, where other parts of your wealth are invested and your risk tolerance.

Key risks relevant to Emplus Employer Super include interest rate risk, market risk, sector risk, company specific risk, managed investment risk, stock selection risk, liquidity risk, derivative risk, currency risk, risk of changes to superannuation and tax laws, fund or operational risk and gearing risk.

Section 5 of this PDS contains the risk profile of the AMG MySuper product's investment strategy.

You should read the important information about risks of investing before making a decision. For more information about risks including the risk profile of other investment options, go to the 'Risks of Super' section of the Member Guide which is available by going to the Forms page at www.emplus.com.au/forms or on request by phoning 1800 336 911. The information relating to risks may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire this product.

6. Fees and costs

DID YOU KNOW?

Small differences in both investment performance and fees and costs can have a substantial impact on your long term returns.

For example, total annual fees and costs of 2% of your account balance rather than 1% could reduce your final return by up to 20% over a 30 year period (for example, reduce it from $100,000 to $80,000).

You should consider whether features such as superior investment performance or the provision of better member services justify higher fees and costs.

You or your employer, as applicable, may be able to negotiate to pay lower fees where applicable. Ask the fund or your financial adviser.

TO FIND OUT MORE

If you would like to find out more, or see the impact of fees based on your own circumstances, the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) website (www.moneysmart.gov.au) has a superannuation calculator to help you check out different fee options.

Fees and costs can be paid directly from your account or may be deducted from investment returns or Fund assets.

You can use the fees and costs information below to compare costs between different superannuation products.

The information relating to fees and costs may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire this product.

7. How super is taxed

There are a number of ways super is taxed. The amount of tax paid depends on factors such as your age, the amount and type of any contributions to your account and whether we hold your Tax File Number. The Trustee will withhold and pay tax as necessary on contributions, investment earnings and withdrawals.

Withdrawals

- If you are age 60 or over, withdrawals, lump sum death benefits paid to tax-dependants and terminal illness benefits are generally tax-free.
- If you are under age 60, withdrawals are subject to tax as summarised in the table below:

Component	Tax payable
Tax-Free	No tax payable
Taxable	If under preservation age, taxed at 20%* If you have reached preservation age but you are under 60, the first $200,000 is tax-free and the balance is taxed at 15%*

*Plus Medicare Levy

 For the 2017/2018 financial year. $205,000 for the 2018/2019 financial year. Subject to indexation in future years.

Taxes do not usually apply to withdrawals that are made by way of transfer to another super product.

Investment Earnings

The investment earnings applicable to your investments are taxed at a rate of up to 15%. The actual rate may be less due to tax credits or other rebates.

Contributions

If we hold your Tax File Number (TFN), the following tax rules apply (provided you do not exceed the relevant annual contribution caps):

- Concessional contributions such as employer contributions (including salary sacrifice contributions) and personal contributions for which a tax deduction is obtained are generally taxed at up to 15% of the contribution.
- Non-concessional contributions such as personal contributions for which a tax deduction is not obtained (e.g. contributions made from your after-tax pay) are generally tax free

Warning: When making contributions it is important to note that there are tax consequences (you pay higher levels of tax) if you exceed the relevant contributions caps.

How Tax is Paid

The Trustee will pay the tax relating to your super account to the Australian Taxation Office (ATO). Contributions tax is deducted from contributions allocated to your account prior to them being invested. An allowance for investment earnings tax is deducted from investment income and included in the calculation of unit prices. Tax applicable to lump sum benefits is deducted before benefits are paid.

If, however, you exceed relevant annual contribution caps, you will be personally liable for tax (and any other charges) relating to excess contributions. It may be possible for you to withdraw excess contributions, to pay tax you are liable for.

Further, if you are a high income earner, additional tax may apply to concessional contributions which do not exceed the relevant cap. You will be liable for this additional tax.

Warning: You should provide your TFN when acquiring this product. If you were enrolled into Emplus Employer Super by your employer, your employer will usually provide us with your TFN. If you are transferred into this product from another superannuation fund, that other fund may have provided us with your TFN. If we don't hold your TFN, higher tax will apply to your concessional contributions, we cannot accept member contributions for you, the tax on superannuation benefits may be higher and it may be more difficult to locate any lost super benefits or consolidate your superannuation. Further information about tax is available from www.ato.gov.au.

You should read the important information about tax before making a decision. For more information about taxation matters relevant to superannuation, go to the 'Tax and Your Super' section of the Emplus Employer Super Member Guide available by going to the Forms page of www.emplus.com.au/forms or on request by phoning 1800 336 911. The information relating to tax may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire this product.

8. Insurance in your super

Insurance is a very important part of your financial planning, as it provides you and your family with financial security should something unexpected happen to you. Linking insurance to your superannuation can potentially be both cost and tax-effective.

Capitalised words in this section have specific meanings set out in the Dictionary and Schedule of the applicable insurance policies, some of which are summarised in the Emplus Employer Super Insurance Guide.

Insurance cover is provided through group insurance policies issued to the Trustee by OnePath Life Limited ABN 33 009 657 176, AFSL No 238341 ("the Insurer")

Types of insurance cover

Emplus Employer Super offers a range of insurance cover options to suit your individual needs. These options are:

- Death (including Terminal Illness) only
- Death (including Terminal Illness) and Total and Permanent Disablement (TPD)
- Income Protection.

Insurance cover can be increased, reduced or cancelled to meet your changing needs by contacting the Fund Administrator on 1800 336 911 or info@emplus.com.au. It is therefore important that you regularly review your insurance arrangements. We recommend that you speak to your financial adviser before applying for or varying your insurance cover.

Special arrangements apply to members transferred to this product under a successor fund arrangement effective 1 June 2018, as advised in a significant event notice. Any amount and level of insurance cover that a transferred member had immediately before the transfer will continue in this product, subject to the terms and conditions of the insurance policies for Emplus as outlined in this PDS, the Emplus Employer Super Insurance Guide and, if applicable to you, an Employer Plan Schedule. If a transferred member commenced employment with their employer before 1 June 2018 but the initial contribution is not received until after 1 June 2018, provided the initial contribution is received within 120 days of the date of becoming engaged by the employer and other eligibility criteria are met, Default Death and TPD cover may apply in accordance with the description of the Emplus Employer Super Default Table of Cover below.

Default Cover

Usually, eligible members of Emplus Employer Super will be automatically provided with Death and TPD default cover on joining this product in accordance with the Emplus Employer Super Default Table of Cover below. However, tailored default cover may apply if you are covered by a tailored insurance arrangement.

You can cancel automatic cover by contacting the Fund Administrator.

Emplus Employer Super Default Table of Cover

Eligible members joined to this product on or after 1 June 2018 by their employer will automatically be provided with Death and TPD insurance cover in accordance with a Default Table of Cover (Default Death and TPD insurance cover). Members transferred to this product under a successor fund arrangement from the Emplus Superannuation Fund effective 1 June 2018, who had (and were eligible for) default Death and TPD immediately before the transfer, will also be provided with Death and TPD insurance cover in accordance with the Default Table of Cover below (unless they are covered under an Employer Plan which provides different or additional default cover).

Eligibility criteria (set out in more detail in the Emplus Employer Super Insurance Guide) include being under age 64 and working as a Permanent Employee for a minimum number of hours per week.

The amount of cover you'll receive depends on your age and we'll automatically adjust this amount throughout your membership of this product, based on your age, unless cover ceases or changes for some other reason.

Generally, if you've joined this product through your employer you receive automatic unitised Death and TPD insurance cover provided you are At Work, have not been paid and are not entitled to a total and permanent disablement or terminal illness benefit from any insurance policy, and we receive an initial contribution within 120 days of the date you first become engaged by your employer as an Employee. Other conditions apply. If you are eligible, Default Death and TPD cover generally starts on the date you commence employment with your employer.

Up to age 64 (next birthday), you receive two units of Default Death and TPD cover for $4.10 per week. Provided your cover commenced before age 64 and has not ceased for any reason, from age 65 to 69 (age next birthday), you will be provided with two units of Death only cover for $2.06 per week.

Tailored (Employer Plan) Default Cover

If Employer Plan Default Cover is applicable to you, you will be advised of this in your Welcome Kit, on joining this product. Members transferred to this product under a successor fund arrangement from the Emplus Superannuation Fund effective 1 June 2018, who had (and were eligible for) Employer Plan Default Cover immediately before the transfer, will be provided with Employer Plan Default Cover in this product.

Tailored Employer Plan Default cover can include Death only, Death and TPD cover and/or Income Protection cover. Death and TPD cover may be a dollar amount based on age or calculated as a multiple of salary (subject to maximum limits). Default Income Protection is based on salary (subject to maximum limits) and a default Waiting Period and Benefit payment period. The type and level (amount) of cover you will automatically receive if eligible (including whether Employer Plan Default cover is instead of or in addition to default cover in accordance with the Emplus Employer Super Default Table of Cover above) will be set out in a Employer Plan Schedule included in your Welcome Kit, if applicable. The type and amount of cover you receive is subject to the terms and conditions of the insurance policies for Emplus as outlined in this PDS and the Emplus Employer Super Insurance Guide.

If you are eligible for Employer Plan Default Cover, insurance costs for that cover range from $0.07 to $14.46 per week (depending on age and gender) for each $1,000 sum insured for Death and TPD cover that is based on a multiple of salary and $4.80 to $48.95 p.a (depending on age) for each $1000 annual benefit for Income Protection cover (plus any stamp duty). The cost of a dollar amount (which varies depending on age) of default death only cover under an Employer Plan is $1 per week. The cost of Employer Plan Cover will be set out in more detail in your Welcome Kit, if applicable to you. If you are also eligible for default cover under the Emplus Employer Super Default Table of Cover above, the costs of that cover also apply.

Voluntary Cover

You can apply for voluntary insurance or additional insurance cover by completing an insurance application form (including Personal Statement) which you can find at www.emplus.com.au/forms. Your application will be assessed by the Insurer. Your voluntary cover will commence once the Insurer has accepted the application for cover and you have sufficient account balance to cover the monthly deduction of insurance fees. The cost of voluntary or additional insurance cover depends on the amount and nature of the cover and is determined in accordance with rate tables shown in the Emplus Employer Super Insurance Guide. The acceptance of cover may be subject to premium loadings, exclusions or restrictions. You can choose to reduce or cancel this voluntary cover in the future by contacting the Fund Administrator.

As a condition of your insurance cover, the Trustee requires you to comply with a Duty of Disclosure and to disclose every matter that you know may be relevant to the Insurer's decision to accept the risk of insurance, and if so, on what terms. Please read your Duty of Disclosure set out in the Emplus Employer Super Insurance Guide.
